

Annotation

The goal bachelor's thesis is to analyze the quality of nursing care in clients after arthral replacements. The thesis is divided into theoretical and practical part.

The teoretical part deals with the clients' foreknowledge of their disease and their pain reception.

The practical part deals with the methodics and results of the own author's research on selected group of clients. Using the questionnaire, the clients' foreknowledge of their disease, their foreknowledge of the clients' laws, and their foreknowledge of the department rules were evaluated, respectively. Furthermore, the pain reception after operation, the pain dependance on daytime and rehabilitation, and the methods used for pain easement by nurses were evaluated, as well.
